THE ELECTIONS.

The Nouember elections have resulted everywhere, except in the State of New York and the Solid South in a grand overwhelming victory for the Republicans. In New York we have elected a Governor by a large plurality, and have both branches of the Legislature by a good working majority. This is a grand result, and one at which Republicans feel gratified. We had hoped, however, that the Rewould be large enough to concluit, we will have more to say hereafter. In electing their Governor the Republicans have gained a great deal, and now have the assurance, that if they carry the electoral ticket next year, it will be hon? not yet complete.

In New Jersey and Connecticut gains were made in the Legislature, which are important chiefly, from the fact that the Senators-elect hold over and participate in the election of a United States Senator next year. In Pennsylvania, the contest was one of no National importance, except as it goes to show that the gallant old Keystone State may yet be relied upon for old-fashioned Republican majorities.

In Wisconsin, Nebraska, Minnesota, and other Western States, the Republicans have made uniform gains, showing that in this growing, thrifty section a sound political sentiment prevails. It is a good locality for Republicanism to thrive in, and after the next census will exercise a powerful influence in the control of the Government. Altogether, the Republicans have cause for universal rejoicing over Tuesday's results.

A GOOD deal of complaint has been made of Governor Blackburn, of Kentucky, recently, because he has pardoned so large a number of convicts out of the penitentiary. He has been interviewed on the subject by a Courier-Journal reporter, to whom he made the statement that he expected to pardon children when sent to that institution. In one of the most exciting periods in the political history of this Republic. On the his remarks in the Methodist 14th day of next month, the people of night, Judge Ferriss made the officers. Heretofore, parties have been statement that mere children had, with the important influence which the re- Not To Be Excelled. penitentiary of our own State. prominent Republicans in the varis interest. ous States, none stands out more conspicuously for its brilliancy and efficiency than that of James G. Blaine. He worked constantly for weeks before the election in his own State, and started a wave of victory any interest in politics will desire to watch that swept over other States, encouraging and cheering Republicans everywhere. The battle closed and ceeded to Ohio, where he did gal-lant service and contributed as much as any other one man to the splendid Republican success to the splendid Republican success in the Buckeye State. He then went to Iowa and Wisconsin, and closed with a grand charge on the enemies line in New York. He has gone wherever his services were demanded without regard to the effect

Of this contest, and the elements entering into a candidate or to allow the use of his every avocation and profession, and all name as a candidate. His position is ages, sexes and conditions in life. We will the same as in reference to the Governorship, last summer. He is not a candidate, and it is too early to say what he would do if the position was tendered by the unanimous vote of the Republicans in the Legislature. His refusal to become a candidate is but a reiteration of what he has said all the time. He has informally expressed himself as not desiring the position. His intimate friends say, however, that if the Republicans should be unestly certified to by the Chief Executive. It is a great victory, but that if the Republicans should be unable to agree on a candidate, and the position was tendered him with unanimity, he would accept."

> Now that Senator Chandler is dead we have an occasional illustration of the living donkey kicking the dead lion, as witness the following from the Atlanta Contistution: "Of him, as of few others, it may be appropriately said that nothing in his life became him as well as death, and the hour that the angel of peace stopped and placed her gentle fingers upon his feverish lips represents a decade of progress in the direction of good will between the sections."
